THE FOURTH OF JULY.

We believe nothing has been done as yet in the way of celebrating the Fourth in Winters. We had hoped that our town, usually so free and prompt to respond to every call in the celebrating time, that this of all years, should not be forgotten, the Centennial year. One hundred years ago the freedom of our country was guaranteed to us as the blood of our grandfathers, yet we who now live to enjoy its blessings, think more of celebrating at a Sabbath School or social picnic, than we do of having a social celebration in remembrance of the day which freed us from the tyrant power. The neglect of a celebration of a national character at this time, will show to the world about how much patriotism there is in us, and how much dependence could be placed in us should a necessity occur for a call for soldiers to protect and save the freedom of our country. From the present indication, we think there would be but very few recruits, unless a very large demand would be placed in the van. However, we believe there is a redeeming feature. The young gentlemen and ladies are making preparations for the grandest ball ever had in Winters. So far, so good. The dance part of the jubilee is to be made perfect. We will bless God that even this much of a patriotic spirit lives in the people.

The Tune Mr. Baker Liked.

By MAX ADLER.
They had something of an excitement at the Friends' meeting in our village last Sunday. Old Mrs. Baker lost her husband a few weeks ago, and as some of the Friends were speaking of their experience with affliction, it occurred to Mrs. Baker to tell something about the woe she had suffered from her bereavement. She got up and told quite an affecting story about Mr. Baker's final illness, and in the course of it she said:

"Dear John was very fond of the tune of the 'Star Spangled Banner,' and about two days before he died he said to me: 'Julia I wish you'd just whistle that tune over for me a couple of times; I want to hear it once more before I die.' So I hated to disoblige him, and though I never felt so mean and disheartened in my life, I started to do it the best I could, and I gave it to him something like this:

Here Mrs. Baker began a tune that bore no earthly resemblance to the 'Star Spangled Banner' while the Friends sat listening in amazement.

"Fuf-fu-fuf-fu, fuf-fu-fuf-fu, fuf-fu-fuf-fu. No that's not exactly it. That's more like the 'Last Rose of Summer,' which John liked well enough, too, but not the way he liked the 'Star Spangled Banner.' Lomax see, how did it go?"

Then Mrs. Baker whistled 'Yankee Doodle' and adding that that was not it she whistled 'Lily Dale,' and 'Hail Columbia,' and 'Prisoner's Hope,' and three or four other tunes, and finally she said:

"Well, really, I don't seem able to catch the air of that song, but I did it then, and John said: 'Julia, you have been a good wife to me, and the reason why I loved you so much was because you could always out whistle any other woman in New Castle county.' And that was the solemn truth. Bad as my asthma is, I can walk around any woman in this meeting whistling tunes. It's mighty strange I can't just catch that one, but I can sing it any way, if I can't remember exactly how it whistles. I often used to sing it to John, this way: 'Oh say my kin you see-e-e, by the dawn's early light What so proud on on only we had all-alied at the twilight.'—What d'you say?"

observed Mrs. Baker, as Benjamin Jones, one of the leaders of the meeting, stepped up and whispered in her ear. "I can't go out I was showing you how I sang that tune for John on his death-bed."

"Really it is out of place. These will be come to stop," said Jones.
"Oh, very well then, I'll stop. But it appears to me that people who call themselves Christians might have a little more sympathy with a lone wanderer in his straits, or was it shut her up when she's relating her experience. No ear for music, I guess. That's the way with some people. Jealous. Anyhow I'll sing that tune if I die for it. I'll go outside and sing it."

Thereupon Mrs. Baker stepped into the yard and sang the 'Star Spangled Banner' vociferously two or three times, while a crowd of boys collected and poked their noses through the railing and listened. Then she put up her umbrella, wiped her nose, and went around to worship with the Presbyterians.

Scripture Questions.

When Christ said "He that believeth in me shall not only do the work that I do; but greater things than these shall he do." Did He tell a whopper? or does the churchman of to-day who tells us "no man" has such power, tell a whopper?

Was it God, the infinite, maker of the universe, He who has no respect of person, that had the social chat with Satan (as recorded in the 13th chapter of Job), or was it a "dainty Lord," who thus challenged Satan to test the piety of his pet servant? and who so familiarly chatted with him. As God knoweth all things, there was no necessity for him to ask such a foolish question; but a foolish Lord would be just the man to sell his best servant to the devil. If man would stop to reason a moment, they would not charge God with such gross injustice as they now do.

Was there ever an angel created separate, distinct and higher than man, if so, what? On the contrary, are not all angels and archangels immortal that once lived on this or other planets, and once bore the name of man or woman? and if so, have they lost all love for those on earth.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Letters from Vacaville.

VACAVILLE, June 2, 1876.

EDITOR ADVOCATE: It has often appeared somewhat strange to me that a town of such literary pretensions and real advantages as Vacaville, with so many educational advantages and opportunities of improvement as this town presents has so rarely been represented by newspaper correspondents. The people of Vacaville, although in their social relation with one another, they cannot be supposed, seem almost entirely bound up in themselves. It is mainly by newspaper correspondents that the notice of the public are brought to the small interior towns. Now Winters has an organ of its own, and through which its advantages and peculiar facilities can be heralded forth to the enterprising public. If the people of a town have not the energy nor will to show forth their own advantages, they may be certain that no one will for them. The lack of this disposition on the part of our townsmen, I think, has been one of the principal causes why the neighboring towns have been fast outstripping Vacaville in the race of progress, and why she has for several years been almost at a standstill. For certainly no town possesses better advantages than Vacaville. Surrounded by grain and fruit growing country that cannot be surpassed, with excellent facilities for communication with the outer world, with educational opportunities that cannot be surpassed with a beautiful and salubrious climate, and above all her people being intelligent (with but the one failing). The assertion that they are orderly and religious is apparent from the fact that there are four church buildings in the village. With all these advantages combined there can be no legitimate reason why Vacaville should not be what her facilities ought to make her, one of the leading and most enterprising interior towns in the State. When her citizens awake to a sense of the responsibility resting on themselves. When the spirit of go-aheadness that is at present animating other towns around them; when they shake off the drowsy lethargy by which they are shackled. Then and then only will Vacaville be truly progressive. For to themselves, and to themselves only can they look for the solution of the problem whether their town will ever be any more than she is at present, an embryo, with a germ of strength which rests with themselves to develop.

Vacaville is not at present very "productive of news." Since the closing of the college year, the town has looked somewhat deserted.

Two deaths occurred in town during the last week. One the case of a young man who was brought here from Napa in the last stages of consumption. The other that of a little boy.

Four of our ex-students started on a trip to the mountains, a few days ago intending to be gone two or three weeks. They returned a week after killing a horse, using themselves up and doing other damages.

President Greene has gone East after his family. Mrs. L. gave a lecture last night in the College Chapel to a small audience. Her lecture was well received but was not such as was anticipated.

Rev. Bateman and family with a few friends have gone on a trip to Yosemite. Our new telegraph operator and express agent here Worham is well liked.

Prof. Kelly with his corps of men all students will start on a surveying expedition in a few days.

The girls of Vacaville taken as a whole are the prettiest set anywhere. Amount of fruit shipped to San Francisco is rapidly increasing.

VACAVILLE, June 8, 1876.
EDITOR ADVOCATE: As harvest is approaching, we thought it might be of interest to your readers to give an account of some very fine Harvesting Machinery that we saw at Baker & Hamilton's in our recent visit to San Francisco. The machinery referred to consisted of two Pitt's forty-four inch End Shake Separators and the largest size Ames' Straw Burning Engine ever brought to this coast. This machinery was built to order, and was ordered last Fall through our enterprising firm here of Blum & Frenkel, who are doing a large business in that line, besides their extensive business in general merchandise and buying grain, etc. William Butcher takes one Separator and will have it shipped to Dixon; and will thresh on Putah Creek. He also has had his Ames' engine (bought last year), thoroughly refitted and changed to a Straw Burner, and intends to keep up with the times in all the improvements pertaining to threshing implements. John B. Neff, takes the other Separator and Engine referred to, and will have them shipped to Colusa where he has already engaged several thousand acres of grain to thresh. Both machines are fitted with improved self-feeders and additional cleaners, with the view of doing the largest amount of threshing with the greatest possible saving of grain and expense to the farmer. The engines have all the latest improvements in motion, regulators and appliances for safety from fire.

These Machines are among the very best ever brought to the State, and reflect great credit to the business men of our town. Respectfully Yours, F. L. O.

Our Michigan Letter.

PLYMOUTH, (Mich.) May 15, 1876.

EDITOR ADVOCATE: Sitting here in our old home, beside a bright fire so necessary here this time of the year, and gazing out on a leafless forest, that still waits the genial warmth of a tardy Springtime to bring forth the verdant robes of Summer, we cannot but contrast the scene before us and the one we left but a few days since in sunny California. As we rolled eastward from Sacramento through green woodland and flowery plain, past hay fields sweet with new mown hay, and vast stretches of wheat nearly ready for the harvest. The snow-capped Sierras became less and less distant, and the air cooler and lighter till the shades of evening closed from our sight the first scene of this drama of nature, giving us a foretaste of the next in the sharp cold that swept of the banks of snow with which we were surrounded at an elevation of 7,000 feet.

Morning showed a scene that many of your younger readers never saw—Winter. Surrounded with snow on every side and with a keen cold air that quickly formed the melting snow on the top of the car into a fringe of icicles, it was hard to realize that our few hours ride could have brought us into what we clearly felt to be anything but California, but rather that "Backward, turn backward, oh time in your flight," had become a reality.

"Backward, turn backward, oh time in your flight," over plain and desert, till the Rockies are passed and the plain of Nebraska spread before us, still another scene—early Spring with now and then a wild flower peeping timidly forth, and the sturdy farmer preparing his fields for planting. The peach and cherry were just in bloom in Iowa and Illinois. Michigan will soon be clothed in wealth of beautiful verdure from her forests and countless shade trees that meet the delighted eye at every turn that would awaken a pang of envy in the breast of the most loyal Californian.

Our experience will enable us to give some directions that may be of advantage to those who do not wait for the next Centennial. We were induced, to take the emigrant train, and say by all means come as we did, rather than not at all, and even rather than on the express other than in their late cars. All our fellow passengers, including many ladies who had been over the road on the express, assured us of their decided preference for the emigrant. We were less crowded, could see the country to better advantage from the fact of our going slower, and being so far from the engine that we could raise our windows and not be troubled with cinders or dust, which is impossible on the express. We were free to do as we chose, there being no transient passengers; could make our coffee on the stove, or use the very popular pocket-stove, and were "at home" generally. Care must be taken at Sacramento to get a good company together in one of the better cars, and if as successful as we, we will very much regret the time for parting.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

REMOVAL.—Once more we are compelled to move our quarters to accommodate our thriving town. Nearly every available spot on Main street is either used as a storage for liquors of a hicker saloon. Even our office caught the contagion, so that we consented to accept a keg of beer from the Davisville Brewery on trial. But it seems there is not sufficient accommodation for all customers yet, as one of that class of men purchased the building where our office was, with the intention of starting another saloon. There is much to be said for the beer, but the fact is that the six fights of the best men some of them were so fortunate as to have sufficient friends so that when they got drunk they could stand up to the bar, a friend would step up on either side of him, and hold him up while the bartender would turn the liquor down his throat as you would turn skin milk down a rat hole, and it wasn't a very good day for drunken men either; but we had to move, and now you will hereafter find us on the north side of the railroad track near Norwood Park, nearly opposite the Parker House.

SERVICES.—Whisky on the rampage—Sunday, only six fights occurred in consequence of overdoing—good chance for our new pledged Good Templars to make their mark. Some prospects of starting a bone-yard in Winters. A family came in from Napa with a sick child, and they called in all our physicians to see it, but with all the medicine they had to spare, they couldn't check the fight of the little one. Davis, formerly of big horn notoriety, has left the band and gone into the real business. We believe he is about to make a contract to furnish China boarding houses with fresh rats every day for soup. Wilkinson & Co. have dissolved partnership. London says the Parker House sign is to have a whole background. We shall look for its advent with great interest. Apricot pies are a luxury this hot weather. We know by happy experience.

If you want to buy Good Goods cheap, go to Blum & Co.'s. They have the largest stock of Goods this side of San Francisco.

MORE LIQUOR.—We understand that James Donnelly, the oldest liquor merchant in Napa, has rented the store under the Masonic Hall, where he intends to open an agency for the Empire Brewery, Lyon & Co.'s Ale and Porter, and he intends it as a branch of his store in Napa. The change is caused by the Monticello and Knoxville trade being about to change to Winters. He intends to supply his trade at that point as usual, and keep up with the change.

You can find anything you want at Blum & Co.'s from a Needle to a Threshing Machine at bed-rock prices.

Mrs. Logan's lecture at the College Chapel, Vacaville, last Monday evening, was well appreciated. A letter from a friend yesterday informs us she is doing a good work in the cause of temperance. She speaks at Father Mathew Hall, Sacramento, next Sunday evening.

PREPARE YOUR BALLOON.—The members of Danneberg Lodge, No. 33, K. of P., will please bear in mind that at the next regular meeting, Thursday June 16th, there will be an election of officers. Don't forget the time.

STILL ANOTHER CHANGE.—The Parker House is about to add to her accommodations, a two-story front, which will give them about 20 rooms more; the increase of business makes it a necessity.

PARAGRAM.—Professor Smith, of Woodland, will preach in the church at this evening (Saturday) and to-morrow at 11 o'clock and at night.

If you want to buy perfect fitting clothes, shirts and underwear cheap, Blum's is the place.

TAYLOR HOUSE.—The house formerly known as the Taylor House, we understand, when refitted and furnished ready for the opening, will also be re-christened—born anew.

The best goods are the cheapest. Ladies do not fail to call and examine the summer novelties and attractive goods displayed by Mansfield & Theodore. They are keen to sell and defy competition. All goods warranted first class.

MOUTH WASH.—Don't forget, everybody send and get a bottle of Doc. Harding's Mouth Wash, the best in the world. It possesses anodyne, detergent, tonic and aptic qualities. Everybody should have it, whether they have teeth or not.

FLAMING ATTENTION.—In latest improved Mowers, Header-wagons and Agricultural Implements, the enterprising firm of Mansfield & Theodore takes the lead. They announce themselves ready to fill all orders for machinery, and guarantee prices and terms will be satisfactory.

Dr. Harding will be in the city from San Francisco, 12th to 17th June. Vacaville, 19th to 24th June. Suisun, 26th June to 1st July. Winters, 2d to 8th of July. Address all communications to office at Suisun.

NOT TO BE OUTDONE.—and must keep pace with the times, Mansfield & Theodore offer a fine stock of Gentle Furnishing wear, at moderate prices.

Dr. Harding has tooth brushes and mouth wash, which every one should have. If you haven't got them, buy at once, and you will say it is money spent that pays you a larger dividend than any you are invested.

CHROMOS.—We have a fine lot of chromos left, 9x11 inches, which we will sell at low figures. Call and see them at our office.

Send 25 cents (stamp) for sample of Dr. Harding's simple, efficient and perfectly safe tooth-powder.

THE LIGHTNING TRAIN.

Comments of the Eastern Journals.

The New York World, of June 5th, speaking of the fast train, says: "Everything considered the feat is really remarkable. In their flight the passengers climbed three great mountain ranges and crossed the two great rivers of the continent. The train, 100, had for most of the way to depend on a single track road and some of those roads are inferior in ballast, ties and line. Notwithstanding, the whole performance surpasses that of the great English trains which run nightly from London to Edinburgh and Holyhead, even without taking into consideration the fact that wild Irishmen and mad Scotchmen only travel hundreds of miles, whereas what may be styled the 'Go the way' travels thousands. The feat, of course, been a pecuniary one for its managers, and it will have at least the additional effect of calling public attention to the possibility and advisability of extending our fast mail system."

The Herald of the same date speaking of the fast train says: "Perhaps the most remarkable thing about the journey is that it had not required any other appliances to complete it than those already in use, except the injection of that quality which to-day we call enterprise. To be concerned in it is a debt of gratitude is due. What is today the wonder in the transcontinental journey it will not be easy to surpass or even equal for many days, but, as has been shown that thing can be done. We hope to see a regular train soon attempt to emulate and to shove back further into the dark ages the time when the old emigrant road across the plains was strewn with the graves of men who started with horse and wagon, and when the pony express seemed a revolution."

For latest styles of clothing for Gentlemen and Children, examine the splendid stock of Mansfield & Theodore.

Dr. Harding makes gold and platinum fillings, as incapable of crumbling as a piece of bullion.

If you have loose, shaky or black teeth, send 75 cents in stamps to Dr. Harding, Suisun, for the Colutor.
